Sedgwick County Departments Receive Awards

(Sedgwick County, Kansas) – The National Association of Counties (NACo) has awarded three Sedgwick County Departments with Achievement Awards. Awards this year were given to the Regional Forensic Science Center for the Tissue and Organ Donor Referral program, the County Appraiser's Office for the Electronic Interactive Property Filing and Emergency Management for the Ready to Respond program.

The award program, which began in 1970, recognizes local jurisdictions for their innovative, grass-roots efforts to modernize and strengthen county government and to increase services to citizens.

In the past six years, Sedgwick County has won several Achievement Awards from the National Association of Counties for model county programs.

"I am very proud of all of these departments for their commitment to improving County Government," said Commission Chairman Ben Sciortino. "The recognition of these programs and departments by NACo shows us what we are doing really is making a difference."
